

Today and Tomorrow

View from Shirehampton Park over Horseshoe Bend. Shirehampton golf course occupies the southern portion of Kings Weston estate separating it from the Avon.

Before KWAG work

Since it was formed in April 2011 the Kings Weston Action Group has begun work on raising the profile of the Historic Estate and begun asking questions about how it can survive and evolve into the future. We are building relationships with Bristol City Council, English Heritage, and the National Trust and other local groups so we can start developing a picture of what people need and want to see here. Finding a balance between the historic importance of the estate, nature conservation and modern needs will be essential.

After KWAG work

We hope that we can introduce Kings Weston to new visitors who have never thought to come here, but also increasing access and opening up new prospects for the regular visitor to enjoy. For example, increasing the use of public footpaths across the golf course so more people can enjoy the spectacular views over the Avon.

KWAG has started working parties to gradually clear brambles and undertake other practical tasks to uncover some of the fast disappearing features from the undergrowth. We hope to continue to clear the avenue over the next few months and have other areas of the park to move on to after that.

KWAG has begun collecting ideas and suggestions from people for how they would like to see the park evolve in the future. So far we have received a huge response and suggestions have ranged from such simple ideas as the installation of more benches and dog-poo bins, to more ambitious plans to create new facilities and replace old features. It is important that you add your voice if there is something you think needs to be considered.

HOW CAN YOU GET INVOLVED?

We hope you have enjoyed this exhibition. The Kings Weston Action Group is free to members.

Whether you would like to help in practical work, or just want to keep in touch with developments the best way you can help is by giving us your details and let us know how you would like to get involved.

KWAG regularly issues newsletters and advertises when events and working parties will happen. Any help you can give us, no matter how small, will always be appreciated.

Please add your support to giving Kings Weston a future.

Thank you
